PREFACE.

THE necessity of a book of this kind, adapted to the wants of the emigrants to California and New Mexico, has long been felt, and the following pages were prepared to give in as concise and brief a manner as possible an idea of the outlines of that knowledge to be subsequently filled up by the reader's own observation. Of course no one will expect to find in so small a volume as this, a history and geography of California, with grammars of the two languages most in vogue there, and dialogues of the phrases most likely to be called for in intercourse between the native and immigrant population. If this book simply prepares the way for others which are more complete, if it gives any clue to intercourse with those whose separate languages are mutually unknown, the compiler will have been satisfied. He has attempted to do his duty faithfully and submits his labor to the public.

SPANISH GRAMMAR.

GRAMMAR is the art of speaking correctly.

Spanish Grammar is the art of speaking Spanish correctly.

Like other languages, Spanish has its regular Parts of Speech defined by the great principles which regulate all means of human inter-communication.

These Parts of Speech are as follows :

ARTICLE, NOUN, PRONOUN, ADJECTIVE, VERB, ADVERB, PREPOSITION, CONJUNCTION, and INTERJECTION.

The first of these, the Article, is a word joined to the Noun or Adjective, to define the thing or person spoken of, viz. : El hombre, the man ; La mujer, the woman ; La casa, the house ; La paz, the peace ; El honor, the honor ; Lo bueno, the good ; Una donna, a lady ; Un rey, a king.

Articles are masculine, feminine, and neuter, singular or plural.

The Articles of the Spanish language are two, of which one is called definite, viz. : el or the, and its variations masculine, feminine, and plural, equivalent in English to the, a, or an, and their variations

The cases of Adjectives, like those of Nouns, are defined by Prepositions, which express the cases, or variations from the Nominative, viz. : GENITIVE, DATIVE, ACCUSATIVE, VOCATIVE, and ABLATIVE.

These Prepositions can best be understood by a paradigm of the declensions of the Definite Articles, as follows, viz. :

Singular.

MASCULINE.	FEMININE.	NEUTER.
Nom. el ,	la ,	lo .
Gen. de el , or, del ,	de la ,	de lo .
Dat. a el , or, al ,	a la ,	a lo .
Acc. el , or, al ,	la , or, a la ,	lo , or, a lo .
Voc. el ,	la ,	lo .
Abl. con , pro , etc. el ,	la ,	lo .

Plural.

MASCULINE.	FEMININE.
Nom. los ,	las .
Gen. de los ,	las .

Dat.	a los,	las.
Acc.	los, or, a los,	las, or, a las.
Voc.	los,	las.
Abl.	con, por, etc. los,	los, and las.

It will here be observed, that the neuter has no plural, and that the Article has, in the singular, three genders.

In a compend like this, it is useless to say it is impossible to give full rules for the use of the Article. As a general direction, however, we will say, that the Article is prefixed to all Nouns expressing quality or class, viz. : Son muy desirables, LA gloria y LA celebridad. Glory and celebrity are very desirable.

There is also another Article corresponding with the English a or an, and which is also declinable in all the cases and genders, and both numbers, as follows, viz. :

Singular.

	MASCULINE.	FEMININE.	NEUTER.
Nom.	un,	una,	un.
Gen.	de un,	una,	un.
Dat.	a un,	a una,	a un.
Acc.	un,	una,	un.
Voc.	un,	una,	un.
Abl.	con, por un,	una,	un

Plural.

MASCULINE.		FEMININE.
Nom.	unos,	unas.
Gen.	de unos,	de unas.
Dat.	a unos,	a unas.
Acc.	unos, and, a unos,	unas.
Voc.	unos,	unas.
Abl.	con etc. unos,	unas.

One of the best examples of the use of the Article is the following :

Un dragone con una spada ataco el Conde—A dragon with a sword attacked the Count.

In this phrase the dragon and the sword have no definiteness, and, therefore, have the prefix un and una, while the Count, who is a particular person, calls for the definite article el or the.

The next part of speech in the order in which grammarians usually treat them, is the Noun, which is really the name of a person or thing.

With the exception of a few peculiar words, the plural of all Spanish nouns is formed by the addition of s, as—

hombre,	man,	hombres,	men.
perro,	dog,	perros,	dogs.

casa,	house,	casas,	houses.
silla,	chair,	sillas,	chairs.
noche,	night,	noches,	nights.

But those which end with a consonant form the plural by the addition of es, viz. :

mujer,	woman,	mujeres,	women.
declinacion,	declension,	declinaciones,	declensions.
variedad,	variety,	variedades,	varieties.
animal,	animal,	animales,	animals.
buey,	ox,	bueyes,	oxen.
cargazon,	cargo,	cargazones,	cargoes

There are nouns with no singular, as—

limonsias,	alms,	calzones,	trowsers,
anales,	annals,	hez,	dregs,
antipodas,	antipodes,	bagatelas,	trifles,
fuelles,	bellows,	gracias,	thanks.

or which have no plural, as—

cebada,	barley,	ciencia,	science,
obscuridad,	darkness,	progreso,	progress,
alimento,	food,	trigo,	wheat,
conoscimiento,	knowledge,	etc.	etc.

Like the articles, nouns are declined by cases defined by prepositions : as the articles are, grammarians divide them into two declensions. The first is composed of those which have no acute accent on the final vowel, like libro, libros, book, books ; mesa, mesas, table, tables.

The second consists of all nouns which form the plural by the addition of es, as, mujer, mujeres, woman, women ; ciudad, ciudades, city, cities.

The following are the declensions of nouns of both forms :

WITH A MASCULINE ARTICLE.

Singular.

Nom.	el libro ,	.	.	.	the book.
Gen.	del libro ,	.	.	.	of the book.
Dat.	al libro (para el)				to the book (for the).
Acc.	libro , al libro ,				the book (objective).
Voc.	libro ,	.	.	.	the book.
Abl.	con , por , un , de , etc.	el libro ,			from etc., the book.

Plural.

Nom.	los libros ,	.	.	.	the books.
Gen.	de los libros ,	.	.	.	of the books.
Dat.	a los libros ,	.	.	.	to the books.
Acc.	los libros (a los libros)				the books (objective).

Voc. los libros, . . . the books.

Abl. con, por, de, etc. los libros, from, etc., the books.

WITH A FEMININE ARTICLE.

Singular.

Nom. la iglesia, . . . the church.

Gen. de la iglesia, . . . of the church.

Dat. a la iglesia, . . . to the church.

Acc. la iglesia, a la iglesia, the church (objective).

Voc. iglesia, . . . church.

Abl. con, por, en, de, la iglesia, of, in, by, the church.

Plural.

Nom. las iglesias, . . . the churches.

Gen. de las iglesias, . . . of the churches.

Dat. a las iglesias, . . . to the churches.

Acc. las iglesias, a las iglesias, . . . churches.

Voc. iglesias, . . . churches.

Abl. con, por, en, las iglesias, with, from, etc., the churches.

WITH THE NEUTER ARTICLE.

Singular.

Nom. lo bueno, . . . the good.

Gen. de lo bueno, . . . of the good.

Dat.	a lo bueno,	.	.	to the good.
Acc.	lo bueno,	or,	a lo bueno,	the good (objective).
Voc.	bueno,	.	.	good.
Abl.	con, por, en, de lo bueno,	with, for, and,
		from, the good.

The neuter has no plural, but substitutes for it the feminine plural with the word cosas, things, viz. :

Nom.	las cosas buenas,	the good things.
Gen.	de las cosas buenas,	of the good things.
Dat.	a las cosas buenas,	to the good things.
Acc.	las cosas buenas,	or, a las cosas
	buenas,	good things. } (objective).
Voc.	cosas buenas,	good things.
Abl.	con, por, en, las cosas buenas,	with, for,
		and to, the good things.

THE SECOND DECLENSION.

This may briefly be defined to consist of all nouns which form the plural in es.

Singular.

Nom.	Dios,	God.
Gen.	de Dios,	of God.
Dat.	a Dios,	to God.

Acc.	Dios, a Dios (objective), . . .	God.
Voc.	Dios ,	God.
Abl.	con, por, en, Dios , . . .	with, for, in, God.

Plural.

Nom.	Dioses , . . .	Gods.
Gen.	de Dioses , . . .	of Gods.
Dat.	a Dioses , . . .	to Gods.
Acc.	Dioses, a Dioses , . . .	Gods (objective).
Voc.	Dioses , . . .	Gods.
Abl.	con, por, en Dioses , . . .	with, from, and Gods.

The second declension is varied precisely like the first by means of the article and preposition, which of course undergo no modification. The noun itself merely adds es to the singular instead of s.

WITH A MASCULINE ARTICLE.

Singular.

Nom.	el señor , . . .	the lord.
Gen.	del señor , . . .	of the lord.
Dat.	al señor , . . .	to the lord.
Acc.	el or al señor , . . .	lord (objective).
Voc.	señor , . . .	lord.
Abl.	con, por, en señor , . . .	with the lord.

Plural

Nom.	los señores,	.	.	the lords
Gen.	de los señores,	.		of the lords.
Dat.	a los señores,	.		to the lords.
Acc.	los señores, a los señores,			lords (objective).
Voc.	señores,	.	.	lords.
Abl.	con, por, en señores,			with lords

WITH A FEMININE ARTICLE.

Singular.

Nom.	la ciudad,	.		the city.
Gen.	de la ciudad,	.		of the city.
Dat.	a la ciudad,	.		to the city.
Acc.	la or a la ciudad,	.		the city (objective).
Voc.	ciudad,	.		city.
Abl.	con, por, en, la ciudad,			with, for, in, the city.

Plural.

Nom.	las ciudades,	.	.	.	the cities.
Gen.	de las ciudades,	.	.		of the cities.
Dat.	a las ciudades,	.	.		to the cities.
Acc.	las or a las ciudades,	.	.	.	cities.
Voc.	ciudades,	.	.	.	cities.
Abl.	con, por, en, la ciudad,				with, for, in, the cities.

Nouns in Spanish are declined merely by prepositions ; and as gender, therefore, becomes of the greatest importance, we have to define a few rules for ascertaining it :

1. Nouns which imply the masculine, take the articles el and un ; as, hombre, man ; caballo, horse ; monje, monk ; sastre, tailor ; capitan, captain ; teniente, lieutenant ; alfarez, ensign. Those which imply a female idea are feminine, as, mujer, woman ; yegua, mare ; duquesa, duchess, etc.

2. Nouns terminating in a are feminine, as, ventana, window ; casa, house ; yerva, grass, etc. ; and in d, as, caridad, charity ; salud, safety ; also in ion, as, concepcion, conception, etc.

3. Nouns expressing quality, or property in, are feminine, as redondez, roundness, etc.

4. All other nouns are masculine.

5. Nouns without a singular are of the gender they would belong to were the singular used, as, viveres, provisions (masculine) ; calzones, trowsers (feminine), etc.

The following nouns may be considered as common—that is to say, may with equal propriety be used with either a masculine or feminine article :

albala,	.	.	.	certificate.
anatema,	.	.	{	anathema (or excom- munication),
arte,	.	.		art.
canal,	.	.	.	canal.
cisma,	.	.	.	schism
cútiis,	.	.	.	skin.
dote,	.	.	.	dowry.
emblema,	.	.	.	emblem
hermafródita,	.	.	.	hermaphrodite.
hipérbole,	.	.	.	hyperbole.
mar,	.	.	.	sea.
márjen,	.	.	.	margin.
órden,	.	.	.	order.
puente,	.	.	.	bridge.
reuma,	.	.	.	rheum.

PRONOUN.

The adjective has properly speaking no declension, following merely the form of the noun it qualifies, and with which, in regular grammatical language, it agrees in gender, number, and case. Expressing merely an attribute, it can never be used alone, except when the neuter is made to express an abstract idea, as el bajo, the low; el profundo, the profound, etc.

We can best explain the adjective by the following declension of a noun and adjective conjoined :

Singular.

Nom.	el rey sabio , . . .	the wise king.
Gen.	del rey sabio , . . .	of the wise king.
Dat.	al rey sabio , . . .	to the wise king.
Acc.	el rey or al rey sabio (obj.), . . .	the wise king.
Voc.	rey sabio , . . .	wise king.
Abl.	con, por, del rey sabio , . . .	with, for, from, the wise king.

Plural.

Nom.	los reyes sabios , . . .	the wise kings.
Gen.	de los reyes sabios , . . .	of the wise kings.
Dat.	a los reyes sabios , . . .	to the wise kings.
Acc.	los or a los reyes sabios (obj) . . .	the wise kings (obj)
Voc.	los reyes sabios , . . .	wise kings.
Abl.	con, por, de los reyes sabios , . . .	with, for, the wise kings.

Adjectives have, however, one other variation not possessed by nouns. It is that of comparison, or of degree.

These are the Positive, Comparative, and Superlative. The first is the mere utterance of the quality of the noun; the second is its enhancement; and the third, its highest exaltation, as, Bueno, mejor, mas bueno, good, better, best; tonto, mas tonto, el mas tonto, el menos tonto, foolish, more foolish, the most foolish, the least foolish.

There is, however, another class of adjectives which are of limited number, and are again subdivided.

They are called numerals, and the sub-classes are ordinal and cardinal.

The cardinals conveying the mere facts, are :

uno,	one.
dos,	two.
tres,	three.
cuarto,	four.
cinco,	five.
seis,	six.
siete,	seven.
ocho,	eight.
nueve,	nine.
diez,	ten.
once,	eleven.

doze,	twelve.
trece,	thirteen.
catorce,	fourteen.
quince,	fifteen.
diez y seis,	sixteen.
diez y siete,	seventeen.
diez y ocho,	eighteen.
diez y nueve,	nineteen.
veinte,	twenty.
veinte y uno, etc.,	twenty-one, etc.
treinta, etc.,	thirty.
cuarenta, etc.,	forty.
cincuenta, etc.,	fifty.
sesenta, etc.,	sixty.
setenta, etc.,	seventy.
ochenta, etc.,	eighty.
noventa, etc.,	ninety.
ciento,	a hundred.
dos cientos,	two hundred, etc.
mil,	a thousand.
dos mil,	two thousand, etc.
un millon,	.	.	.	}	a million.
un cuento,	.	.	.
dos millones,	.	.	.	}	two millions.
dos cuentos,	.	.	.
cien millones,	.	.	.	}	a hundred mil- lions.
cien cuentos,	.	.	.

ciento y cincuenta millones,	}	a hundred and
or cientos, . . .		forty millions.

Uno and the hundreds, cientos, except ciento, a hundred, vary the termination according to gender, as dos cientos hombres, two hundred men; una mujer, one woman.

The ordinals expressing degree, are :

primero,	.	.	.	first.
segundo,	.	.	.	second.
tercero,	.	.	.	third.
cuarto,	.	.	.	fourth.
quinto,	.	.	.	fifth.
sesto,	.	.	.	sixth.
séptimo,	.	.	.	seventh.
octavo,	.	.	.	eighth.
nono or noveno,	.	.	.	ninth.
décimo,	.	.	.	tenth.
undécimo,	.	.	.	eleventh.
duodécimo,	.	.	.	twelfth.
décimo tercio,	.	.	.	thirteenth.
décimo cuarto,	.	.	.	fourteenth.
décimo quinto,	.	.	.	fifteenth.
décimo sexto,	.	.	.	sixteenth.
décimo séptimo,	.	.	.	seventeenth.
décimo octavo,	.	.	.	eighteenth.
décimo nono,	.	.	.	nineteenth.

vijésimo	.	.	.	twentieth.
vijésimo primo ,	.	.	.	twenty-first.
vijésimo segundo ,	.	.	.	twenty-second.
vijésimo tércio ,	.	.	.	twenty-third.
trijésimo ,	.	.	.	thirtieth.
cuadrajésimo ,	.	.	.	fortieth.
quincuajésimo ,	.	.	.	fiftieth.
secsajésimo ,	.	.	.	sixtieth.
septuajésimo ,	.	.	.	seventieth.
octojésimo ,	.	.	.	eightieth.
nonajésimo ,	.	.	.	ninetieth.
centésimo ,	.	.	.	hundredth.
decentésimo ,	.	.	.	two hundredth.
trecentésimo ,	.	.	.	three hundredth.
cuadrajentésimo ,	.	.	.	four hundredth.
quinjentésimo ,	.	.	.	five hundredth.
secsentésimo ,	.	.	.	six hundredth.
septenjentésimo ,	.	.	.	seven hundredth.
octojentésimo ,	.	.	.	eight hundredth.
nonojentésimo ,	.	.	.	nine hundredth.
milésimo ,	.	.	.	thousandth.

PRONOUNS.

There is yet another class of nouns relating to persons or things, which is divided into sub-classes, and which are called PRONOUNS or substitutes.

These are subdivided into Personal, Possessive,

Singular.

Nom.	tu ,	thou.
Gen.	de ti ,	of thee.
Dat.	a ti , etc.,	to thee.
Acc.	ti , or te ,	thee.
Voc.	tu ,	thou.
Abl.	con , por , etc., ti , con tigo ,	with, for, etc.,						thee.

Plural.

Nom.	vos , vosotros-as ,	as ye.
Gen.	de vosotros-as ,	of you
Dat.	a vosotros-as , also os ,	to you.
Acc.	or, a vosotros-as , also os ,	you.
Voc.	vosotros-as ,	ye.
Abl.	con , por , etc., vosotros-as ,	from, for, you.

Singular.

MASCULINE. FEMININE. NEUTER.

Nom.	el, ella,	ello, esto,	.	.	he, she, it.
Gen.	del, della,	de ello, de esto,	of him, her, or it.
Dat.	al, a ella, le,	a ello, a esto,	to him, her, or it.
Acc.	a elle, a ella, la,	ello, esto,	him, her, or it.
Voc.	(wanting.)
Abl.	con, por, el, ella,	ello, esto,	with, etc., him, her, or it.

Plural.

	MAS. NEUT.	FEM.
Nom.	ellos, .	ellas, .	they.
Gen.	de ellos, .	ellas, .	of them.
Dat.	a ellos, .	ellas, .	to them.
Acc.	ellos, los,	ellas, .	them.
Voc	(wanting.)
Abl.	con, ellos,	ellas, .	with them.

The first personal pronoun and the third, it will be seen, have no vocative case.

The third has also a neuter gender.

The following are called COMPOUND RECIPROCATIVE PRONOUNS, viz. :

Yo mismo or ma,	.	.	.	myself.
tu mismo or ma,	.	.	.	thyself.
el mismo,	.	.	.	himself.
ella misma,	.	.	.	herself.
el, or ello mismo,	.	.	.	itself.
uno mismo,	.	.	.	oneself.

The Possessive Pronouns convey the idea of property, as, tu, or el tuyo, thine; mi, el mio, mine; and su, el suyo, his, la suya, hers.

They are of two classes, mi, tu, su, which take no article before them, as mi caballo, su madre; and others which do take the article, as, el mio, el tuyo, la mia, la tuya, la suya, and el suyo.

The following are always used before nouns, viz., mi, mis (pl.), tu, me, tus (pl.); they relate ever to a single person.

Others convey the idea of number, as nuestro, nuestra, vuestro, vuestra, nuestros, nuestras, vuestro, vuestras.

The third personal possessive pronoun, su, sus (pl.), relates to either one or more.

These are all declined by means of the prepositions; and those which have the article are also varied by gender and number, as all other noun words are.

The relative pronouns have reference to some noun previously used. Two of the relatives are also called Interrogatives, viz., que, quien, who? Some pronouns of this class take the article, and others do not. They are declined like other pronouns, viz.:

Singular.

	MASC.	FEM.
Nom.	que, quien,	.	who, that, which.
Gen.	de que, quien,	.	of who, that, which.
Dat.	a que, quien,	.	to who, that, which.
Acc.	a que, quien,	.	to who, that, which (obj.)
Voc.	que, quien,	.	who, that, which
Abl.	de, por, que, quien,		with, by, who, that,

Plural.

	MASC.	FEM.
Nom.	que, quienes,	.	who, that, which.
Gen.	de que, quienes,		of whom, that, which.
Dat.	a que, quienes,		to whom, that, which.
Acc.	que, quienes	(obj.)	whom, that, which.
Voc.	que, quienes,	.	who, that, which.
Abl.	con, por, que, quienes,		with, for, whom, that, which.

Lo que, the neuter relative, signifying that, which, what, is also declined without an article :

Singular.

	NEUTER.
N.	lo que,	. that, which, what.
Gen.	de lo que,	. of that, which, what.
Dat.	a lo que,	. to that, which, what.
Acc.	a lo que,	. that, which, what (obj.)

The plural is also declined with the usual feminine, as, according to the general rule. Ese, esa, eso, are also declined, forming the plural in os and as, as usual.

There is a pronoun, aquese, aqueza, and aquezo, having the same signification with ese.

All other pronouns are called indefinite, and many may be considered merely adjectives, viz.: Otro and mucho, other and much.

The following are the indefinite pronouns proper, viz.:

Uno, una, alguno, alguna, . . . one.

Alguno, alguna, } . . . any.
cualquiera, }

Muchos, { . . . many.
. . . several.

Cada, } . . . every.
Todo, }

Nadie, ninguna persona,	.		{ not any. no body. no one.
Nada,	.	.	nothing.

The pronouns and adjectives of the above table are declined by means of the preposition.

Few of them take the article.

When they are declined in the plural, that number is expressed in the above table.

VERBS.

The Verb is a word which signifies to be, to do, or to suffer.

Verbs are classified into ACTIVE, PASSIVE,

NEUTER, REFLECTIVE, DEFECTIVE, and IMPERSONAL OR THIRD PERSONAL.

The active has reference to another person or thing than the actor, as, Amar la virtud, to love virtue.

The passive is always followed by a preposition, as, Este hombre, es cansado de trabajo, this man is wearied with labor.

The nominative and accusative of the reflective verb always refer to the same person, as, Yo me hallo, I found myself.

There is a sub-class of this verb called RECIPROCAL, which expresses mutual action of several persons or things, as, Todos debian sostenerse, all should sustain each other.

The impersonal or third personal are those, the idea or meaning of which excludes all but the third person, as, Annohecer, to grow dark; annochece, it grows dark; hielar, to freeze; hiela, it freezes.

Verbs are also regular, irregular, and defective.

The first are those which preserve the root unvaried through all the modifications of person, number, tense, and mood.

Irregular are those which have variations from the root.

Defective are those which are only used in certain tenses or persons. In this point of view all the THIRD PERSONAL verbs are defective.

What declension is to nouns, adjectives, and pronouns, conjugation is to verbs. The latter are varied by mood, tense, and person.

Mood expresses the manner of being, doing, or suffering.

The Spanish has five moods, viz.: INFINITIVE, INDICATIVE, SUBJUNCTIVE, CONDITIONAL, IMPERATIVE, and SUBJUNCTIVE.

The infinitive expresses the simple idea, as mercer, to merit; olvidar, to forget; casar, to marry.

The conditional denotes that the action is contingent on something else, as, Yo leiria la Biblia si tenia tiempo, I would read the Bible if I had time.

The imperative commands, exhorts, forbids or exhorts, as, Escribe tu, write; Dame este libro, give me that book.

This mood has but one tense—the present, the idea of command excluding all others.

The subjunctive is a mood depending on another verb, expressed or understood.

Yo me congratularia si hablase, I would congratulate myself if he spoke.

Tense expresses time ; and the Spanish grammarians look on the infinitive as conveying the idea of the present, preterite or past, gerund and participle.

The present of the infinitive is the simplest form of the verb, and simply implies an idea.

The preterite implies that the thing happened in past time. It is usually accompanied by a participle or auxiliary verb, as, Supe haberle visto, I knew I had seen him.

The gerund conveys the idea of the participle ending in ing, as, El rey viendo, the king seeing. It has also the sense of the Latin ablative absolute, as, Cæsare existente (Cæsar being) Cæsar viendo.

The participles are present and past. The present ends (in verbs of the first conjugation) in ante ; in the second and third, in iente. The present is used as an adjective. It cannot take an accusative after it.

The preterite or past participle of regular verbs of the first conjugation ends in ado ; in regular verbs of the second and third conjugations, it ends in ido.

This participle is active or passive, as,

Yo ho leído este libro (active)	}	This book also is read.
Este libro tambien es leído (passive.)

In the indicative mood the Spanish language has eight tenses, viz. :

The PRESENT, the IMPERFECT, the PRETERITE DEFINITE, the PRETERITE INDEFINITE, the PRETERITE ANTERIOR, the PLUPERFECT, the FUTURE ABSOLUTE, and the FUTURE ANTERIOR.

The present denotes a thing is being done, as, Amo, I love ; quieren, they wish ; se, I know.

The imperfect denotes a thing was occurring, as, Componia, he was composing ; escuchaban, they were hearing, etc. It also expresses the habit of a thing, as, Yo tocaba el piano todas las tardes, I used to play the piano every evening.

The preterite definite expresses a thing to have been completed, as, Vio ayer, he saw yesterday.

The preterite indefinite denotes a thing in a past undetermined time, as,

La batalla de Navarino ha assombrada toda la Europa, { The battle of Na-varino has surprised all Europe.

The preterite definite is used when the time in which the action occurred is passed, as,

Una vez vio la reyna, . Once I saw the queen.

The preterite indefinite is used when a portion of time yet remains, as,

Yo le he visto este semana, I have seen him this week.

Another preterite is the preterite anterior, which expresses that an event occurred before another, in the past, as,

Quando hubo dejado su	When he had left his
pais perdio toda espe-	country he lost all
ranza,	hope.

There are in Spanish four futures : the Future Simple or Absolute, and the Future Compound or Anterior, of the indicative mood, make up its complement of eight tenses. Two other futures belong to the conditional and subjunctive moods.

The future simple implies that a thing will take place at some time to come, as,

Yo le considerare el mas fiel	I shall think him my
de mis amigos,	most faithful friend.

The future compound, or anterior, that an action will have been completed when a certain event shall happen, as,

Yo le habre visto cuando	I shall have seen him
vengas,	when you come.

The future absolute expresses a positive fixed time and a contingency, as,

Yo acabaré en Agosto,	I shall be done in August
------------------------------	---------------------------

The future compound implies a fixed contingency, as,

El tratado habra ajustado estas dificultades antes que otros gobiernos pod- ran servirse de algunos embrollos,	The treaty will have ad- justed those difficulties before other govern- ments will be able to make use of any in- trigues.
--	---

The conditional has eight tenses, viz., First, Second, and Third Conditionals, present, which are simple; the First, Second, and Third Conditionals, past, which are formed by means of the auxiliary verb haber; and the Future Conjunctions, Simple and Compound.

The three first denote that a thing would, under certain circumstances, be done at the present time.

The three second, that a thing would have been done, under certain conditions, in time past.

The future conjunctive is always accompanied by a conjunction or an adverb, and expresses what is implied in English by the present of the indicative, when preceded by si or cuando, if, or when. It also conveys the meaning of the present of the subjunctive, when the preceding verb has before it such conjunctions as con tal que, asi que, etc.

Sometimes it conveys the meaning of the future absolute or anterior of the indicative mood.

A pronoun, either expressed or understood, is a necessary attendant of every verb, the classes of the varieties of which have already been understood.

There are four verbs which, though very irregular, need so much attention as to require to be printed in full. They are as follows, viz. : Haber, tener, to have ; ser and estar, to be.

The first haber, to have, is thus conjugated :

Impersonal verbs it is scarcely necessary to conjugate. These are merely verbs used in the third person of each tense.

Defective verbs are merely those which are used only in a few tenses or persons.

IRREGULAR VERBS.

There are verbs which, in the formation of one or more of their tenses, change the vowels of the root. Such are called irregular, and when we think how rich the Spanish language is, they are by no means numerous.

Verbs of this character are found in every conjugation. The following are those of the first:

Acertar, . . . to succeed, which inserts an i before the last syllable of the root or penultimate of the .present of the indicative in all its persons ; also in the second and third persons singular, and third plural of the imperative, and in all the persons of the singular and third plural of the present subjunctive.

The following have the same irregularities :

Andar, to go, is irregular, as follows :

Indicative.—The perfect tense is declined ; anduve, anduviste, anduvo, anduvimos, anduvisteis, anduvieron.

The Conditional.—The first conditional has andaría or anduviera.

Subjunctive.—The imperfect has anduviese, with the irregularity pervading all its tenses.

The future conjunctive is also irregular, viz., anduviere, etc.

Dar, to give, has these irregularities :

Indicative.—The present forms the first person in do ; the other persons are regular.

The preterite definite is di, diste, dio, dimos, disteis, and dieron.

The Conditional.—The second and third conditional are daria and diera.

The Future Conjunctive Simple is irregular: diere, dieres, diere, dieremos, diereis, dieren.

Subjunctive.—The imperfect is diese, dieses, diese, dieseamos, dieseis, diesen.

Jugar, to play, takes an e after the u in the following tenses:

Indicative.—The present is thus declined: juego, juegas, juega, jugamos, jugais, juegan. The first and second persons singular are regular.

The Imperative.—The present also takes e after u in the root, in the singular throughout, and in the third person plural: juega tu, juegue el, juguemos nosotros, juguéis vosotros, jueguen ellos.

The Subjunctive.—The present is irregular in the singular, and in the third person plural, viz.: juegue, juegues, juegue, juguemos, juguéis, jueguen.

Among the foregoing are many neuter, reciprocal, and reflective verbs, varied according to rules which regulate their conjugations.

IRREGULAR VERBS—SECOND CONJUGATION.

Verbs in acér, ecér, and océr, substitute z for final c, in the following tenses and persons. Those in acer have the following irregularities :

Indicative Present.—The first person singular is asco. The other persons are regular.

The Imperative.—The present tense forms the third person singular in azca, and plural in azcan.

The verb apetecer, to wish for, is irregular in the following tenses and persons :

Indicative.—The present has the first person singular in apetezco. The other persons are regular.

Imperative.—The present has the third person plural and singular in apetezca and apetezcan. The other persons are regular.

Subjunctive.—The present forms its persons thus : apetezca, apetezcas, apetezca, apetezcamos, apetezcais, apetezcan.

Conocer has similar irregularities in the same tenses.

Hacer is an exception from the verbs in cer, and is more irregular, viz.

Indicative.—The present forms the first person in hago.

The Preterite Definite is declined. hice, hiciste, hizo, hicimos, hicistis, hicieron.

The Future Absolute is formed in haré, haras, etc.

The Conditional.—The first and second conditional are haria or hiciera, harias, etc.

The third conditional is hiciera and hiciera, hicieres, etc.

The future conjunctive singular is hiciera, hicieres, etc.

The future is in podre, podras, etc.

The Conditional.—The first conditional is podria, or pudiera, etc.

The Future Conjunctive is formed pudiere, pudieres, etc.

Subjunctive.—The present forms the three first persons of the singular, and the third of the plural, by the substitution of ue for o in the root ; as pueda, puedas, pueda, podamos, podais, puedan.

The Imperfect is pudiése, pudiéses, etc.

Caber, to fall, is more irregular. In many instances this verb substitutes qu for c. It forms the following tenses thus:*

Indicative.—The present forms the first person in quepo ; the others regularly.

The Perfect Definite is in cupe, cupiste.

The future is cubre, etc.

The Conditional.—The first conditional is cabria or cuperia. The first form, it will be observed, elides e, the first syllable of the tense termination, and the second makes the substitution of u for a in the root.

The Future Conjunctive is cupiere, cupieres, etc.

The Imperative.—The present forms the third persons singular and plural, and the first person singular, thus : as cabe tu, quepa el, quepamos nosotros, cabed vosotros, quepan ellos.

Subjunctive.—The present is quepa, quepas, etc. ; and the imperfect in cupiese, cupieses, etc.

Caer, to fall, is also irregular.* It forms the gerund in cayendo.

It is otherwise irregular, as follows :

Indicative Present.—The first person singular is in caigo.

* The substitution of qu for c, will almost always be found to be for the sake of the preservation of pronunciation, in cases where the c has the sound of TH in English.

Subjunctive.—The present is formed in caiga, caigas, etc.

All the compounds have the same irregularity.

Poner, to place, is irregular in many tenses, viz.

Interjections vary so as scarcely to be considered words, and in this compend are omitted.

The Spanish does not differ from the other languages in its general principles from other tongues. It is, however, impossible, in such a compend as this, even to refer to its rules.

We may say as much of prosody.

GRAMATICA INGLESA.

LA gramática Inglesa es el arte de escribir y de hablar la lengua Inglesa, con corectitud.

El discurso se sirve de nueve partes de oracion ; á saber, Sustantivo ó Nombre, Articulo, Adjectivo, Pronombre, Verbo, Adverbio, Conjunction y Interjeccion.

La ultima puede ser, no es una palabra pura, pero una exclamacion variando con las emociones de toda persona.

El artículo the no tiene variacion de caso, genero, ó numero. Se declina per medio de las preposiciones asi.

Ejemplo.

Singular.

N.	The father,	.	.	.	el padre.
G.	Of the father,	.	.	.	del padre.

D.	To the father, .	.	.	á, ó para el padre.
Ac.	The father, .	.	.	el, ó al padre.
A.	From the father, .	.	.	del, ó por el padre.

Plural.

N.	The fathers, .	.	.	los padres.
G.	Of the fathers, .	.	.	de los padres.
D.	To the fathers, .	.	.	á, ó para los padres.
Ac.	The fathers, .	.	.	los ó á los padres.
A.	From the fathers, .	.	.	de los, ó por los pa- dres.

Los nombres propios de personas, ciudades, paises, etc., no toman el artículo, como : John, of John, Juan, de Juan, etc.

A ó an se esprimen en Español por un or una. Se sirvé de a delante de los nombres que se principian con un consonante, con h aspirada ó por un y.

Ejemplo.

N.	A friend, .	.	.	un amigo.
G.	Of a friend, .	.	.	de un amigo.
D.	To a friend, .	.	.	al, ó para el amigo.
Ac.	A friend, .	.	.	el ó al amigo.
A.	From a friend, .	.	.	del, ó por el amigo.
N.	An hour, .	.	.	una hora.
G.	Of an hour, .	.	.	de una hora.

D. To an hour,	.	.	.	á ó para una hora.
Ac. An hour,	.	.	.	una hora.
A. From an hour,	.	.	.	de, ó por una hora.

No se debe confundir el artículo a ó an con el adjetivo numerico que sirve especificarle. En la lingua Inglesa se esplica el adjetivo numerico por one.

NOMBRES.

Son verbos que expresmen, cosas, personas, lugares, y cualidades.

En la lengua Inglesa, se hallan dos numeros de nombres, y tres generos.

El plural de los substantivos se forma generalmente por la anadicion de s al masculino del singular.

Ejemplo.

Singular.

A dog,	.	.	.	un perro.
A house,	.	.	.	una casa.
A chair,	.	.	.	una silla.

Plural.

Dogs,	.	.	.	perros.
-------	---	---	---	----------------

Houses,	casas.
Chairs,	sillas.

Excepciones.

Si el singular termina en ch, sh, s, ó, x, se debe añadir es para formar el plural:

Singular.

A church,	una iglesia.
A wish,	un deseo.
A glass,	un vaso.
A box,	una caja.

Plural.

Churches,	iglesias.
Wishes,	deseos.
Glasses,	vasos.
Boxes,	cajas.

Substantivos que acaban con un y precedido de una ó mas consonantes, en lugar de y tienen ies por hacer el plural, as lady ó ladies, señora y señoras. Los nombres que terminan en y no precedidos de un consonante seguen la regla general, como, day, days, dia, dias.

Las consonantes que terminan en f forman el plural es vesco, loaf, loaves, pan, panes, etc.

Los substantivos que terminan en ó forman el plural, en añadiendo es, como, cargo, cargoes, cargazon, cargazones, etc.

Estes nombres son irregulares en el plural.

DEL GENITIVO.

Tienen los Ingleses dos genitivos ó dos modos de expresar la posesion.

Cuando se designa un ser viviente, este en castellano es genitivo ; se esprime en Inglés la misma idea por la anadicion de un s precedida de un apostrofé.

Se ilustrara esta leccion con muchissimos ejemplos :

The king's palace,	. El palacio del rey.
Richard's hat,	. El sombrero de Ricardo.
A wise man's life,	. La vida de un hombre sabio.

LOS ADJETIVOS, ETC.

Los adjetivos Ingleses jamás varian la letra finale :

A good man,	. Un hombre bueno.
A beautiful lady, etc.,	. Una doña hermosa.

En el Inglés siempre precede el adjetivo, el nombre. Esta regla no tiene variacion.

Se forma el plural de los adjetivos por el añadir de la letra s. Esta regla no tiene variaciones.

El positivo es la forma mas simple de los adjetivos ; es la simple espresion de cualidad.

El comparativo se forma por la anadicion de er, or, al ultimo syllaba del positivo, como :

Rich, richer,	. Rico, mas rico.
Wise, wiser,	. Sabio, mas sabio.

Por forma el plural se acede solamente a la letra finale la s :

Wiser man, . . . Mas sabio.

Wiser men, . . . Mas sabios.

El superlativo se forma por la anadición de st or est a la terminacion del positivo, como,

Neat, . . . neater, . . . neatest.

Limpio, . . . mas limpio, . . . limpiísimo.

Pero se elida algunas veces cuando se termina con un vocal el adjetivo, la e finale, como :

Fine, . . . finer, . . . finest.

Fino, . . . mas fino, . . . finisimo.

Se hallan en la lengua Inglesa muchijemas esepciones que no se puede esplicar en un compendio como este.

Una referencia á los dialogos que seguen es compendio de gramática demostrara como se traduzcan los frases Españoles, por esta razon no es necesario esplical el uso y la significacion de los modos y tiempos de los verbos auxiliares de la lengua Inglesa.

Los salos tiempos regulares y simples del verbo Ingles son el presente que se forma asi.

El infinitivo es :

Presente. To call, .	. Lllamar.
Gerundio. Calling, .	. Llamado.
Participio, Called, .	. Llamando.

Indicativo.

I call (or do call), .	. Yo llamo.
Thou callest (or dost call), .	. Tú llamas.
He calls (or does calls), .	. El llama.
We call (or do call), .	. Nosotros llamamos.
Ye call “ .	. Vosotros llamais.
They call “ .	. Ellos ó ellas llaman.

Se hallan terminaciones th y eth en la segunda persona del singular como he doth ó doeth, el hace ; se sirve solamente de este frasen la Sagrada Escritura, en los libros antiguos, en el estilo sostenido y en la poesia.

La forma del tiempo presente, I do call ; se forma con el verbo, to do ; que tiene algunas veces una significacion ausiliar.

Se halla una otra forma con el gerundio, como, I am calling, etc. Todos estes se esprimen por los personas Españolas, yo llamo, tú llamas, etc.

Se forma el pretérito y perfecto por la anadicion de o si el infinitivo tiene e finale, ó ed si con un consonante, ó otro vocal al radice, como, call, called, love, loved, llamar, llamai, amar, amai.

Se sirve de otros formas en, I did call, I was calling ; esprimidos tambien por yo llamai.

Para saber los otros tiempos falta solamente referir á las conjugaciones de los verbos Españoles en el compendio de la gramática Española para saber como esprimirlos.

Se hallan en la lengua Inglesa muchissimas irregularidades. Todos estes consisten en la formacion del pretérito y perfecto y del participio. El uso de los verbos ausiliares en los otros tiempos escluye otra irregularidad. Basta entonces solamente presenta una lista completa para hacer conocer la formacion de los dos primeros tiempos :

Para formar el pasivo del verbo inglese se añade solamente el participio al verbo auxiliar to be, ser ó estar.

Puede ser necesario insertar la conjugacion del verbo semi-auxiliar, I can. Yo puede que no tiene infinitivo.

Ejemplo.

I can,	.	.	.	Yo puedo.
Thou canst,	.	.	.	Tú puedes.
He can,	.	.	.	El puede.
We can,	.	.	.	Nosotros podemos.
You can,	.	.	.	Vosotros podeis.
They can,	.	.	.	Ellos pueden.
I could,	.	.	.	Yo podia, pude, pudiera, podiese.
Thou couldst,	.	.	.	Tú podias.
He could,	.	.	.	El podia, etc.
We could,	.	.	.	Nosotros podíamos, etc.
You could,	.	.	.	Vosotros podiais, etc.
They could,	.	.	.	Ellos podian, etc.

I may, Yo puedo.
Thou mayest, Tú puedes.
He may, El puede.
We may, Nosotros podemos.
You may, Vosotros podeis.
They may, Ellos pueden.
I might, Yo podia, pude, pudiera pudiese.
Thou mightest, Tú podias, etc.
He might, El podia, etc.
We might, Nosotros podíamos, etc.
You might, Vosotros podíais, etc.
They might, Ellos podian, etc.

Se forma el negativo el ingles por el adverbio not, no que sigue los tiempos simples, y se halla entre el verbo auxiliar y el participio de vosotros, como, I call not y I do not call, yo no llamo, etc.

Se puede decir que no tiene la lengua Inglesa otras clases de verbos como reflectivos. La sola defencia es que para esprimir esa idea el objetivo y subjetivo referen á la misma persona.

ADVERBIOS, PREPOSICIONES, CONJUN- CIONES E INTERJECCIONES.

Los adverbios se forman de los adjetivos anadiendo la sílaba ly como, brave, bravely, honest, honestly, bravamente, honradamente. Quando el adjetivo tiene una e finale, se elida la letra ultima, como, true, truly, veramente.

Los adverbios preceden el adjetivo y siguen el verbo, á excepcion de always, siempre; never, nunca ó jamas; often, frecuentamente; seldom, raras-veces; que lo preceden. En tiempos compuestos tienen estos cuatro entre el auxiliar y el participio. Los adverbios con la terminacion ly pueden ó precedir é seguir el verbo.

Los adverbios que tienen la idea de lugar van frecuentamente seguidos de las preposiciones of, by, at, in, with, etc., de, por, encima, en, dentro, con, y entonces las preposiciones, this, that, which, etc., como,

Hereof,	.	.	. de esto.
Thereof,	.	.	. de eso.
Hereby,	.	.	. por esto, ó esta, etc.

Los conjunciones son palabras que sirven para unir las cosas, personas ó ideas. Las mas usitados son :

And, Y.
As if, Como si.
So that, De manera que.
Insomuch that, De suerte que.

Yet, Con todo, sin embargo, pero.

However, Como quiera que sea, al menos.

Although, though, ó tho' Aunque.

In short, En fin, en suma.

For, Porque, para que.

Nevertheless, Con todo eso.

But, Pero.

If, whether, Si, sea que.

Viz., ó namely, Es decir, á saber.

Inasmuch as, En tanto que.

Rather than, Antes que, mas bien que.

In order that, A fin de.

Either, or, ó neither, nor, Ni.

Las interjecciones no son precisamente palabras pero exclamaciones involuntarias; jamas son una parte necesario de una frase; aqui siguen las principales.

Ah! ¡ Ah ! ¡ ay !

Alas ! ¡ Ay !

Well ! ¡ Bien !

Fie ! ¡ Qué vergüenza.

How ! what ! ¡ Cómo ! ¡ qué !

Cheer up ! ¡ Animo ! ¡ alegrarse !

Hold!. ; Tente !
Softly! ; Despacito !
Hush ! ; Chiton !
Huzza ! ; Viva !
Oh ! ; Oh !

 I thank you, or I give you thanks. Doy a vd. las gracias, lo estimo.
 How do you find yourself? ¿ Como se encuentra vd. ?
 Pretty well, thanks be to God. Bastante bueno, a Dios gracias.
 I heartily rejoice at it. Me alegro de eso sinceramente.
 I am extremely obliged to you. Viva vd. mil años.
 I hope you are now quite well. Parece que esta vd. enteramente bueno.
 Middling well, at your service. Medianamente bueno para servir a vd.

Good bye.
Good bye to you.

Quedese vd. con Dios.
Hasta la vista.

II.

On the Hour.

What o'clock is it?
Tell me what o'clock it is.
What o'clock do you think it is?
Is it late?
No, it is early.
It is six o'clock.
I did not think it was so late.
Did you not hear the clock strike?
No, for we do not always hear the clock strike here.
It struck six just now.
It is time to get up.
It is a quarter past six o'clock.
It is about one.
A quarter to eight.
Twenty minutes to nine.
It is striking ten.
It has not struck two.
It is breakfast time.
It is not ten yet.
See by the sun-dial.
How time passes away!
At what time must you go home?

At two o'clock exactly.
The sun is just set.
The moon is rising already.
It is dark, or night.
It is supper time.
It is time to go to bed.
See what o'clock it is by your watch.
It is down.

II.

De la Hora.

¿Que hora es?
Digame vd. que hora es.
¿Que hora piensa vd., que es?
¿Es tarde?
No, es temprano.
Son las seis.
Juzgue que no era tan tarde.
¿No oyo vd. cuando dio el reloj?
No porque jamas oimos aqui cuando de el reloj.
Acaban de dar las seis.
Ya es tiempo de levantarse.
Son las seis y cuarto.
La una esta al caer.
Las ocho menos cuarto.
Las nueve menos veinte minutos.
Las diez estan dando.
No han dado las dos.
Es tiempo de almorzar.
Aun no son las diez.
Vea vd. el cuadrante.
¿Como pasa el tiempo!
¿A que hora tiene vd. que volver a casa?
A las dos en punto.
Acaba de ponerse el sol.
Ya sale la una.
Es de noche.
Es hora de cenar.
Es tiempo de irse a la cama.
Vea vd. que hora es en su reloj.
Se ha parado.

Wind it up.
The hand is lost.
Look at yours.
Mine is a repeating watch.
It stops sometimes.
Yesterday it went too fast.
To-day it goes too slow.
It does not go right.

Dele vd. cuerda.
Se ha perdido la aguja.
Vea vd. el suyo.
El mio es de repeticion.
Se para algunas veces.
Ayer se adelantaba
Hoy se atrasa.
No anda bien.

III.

Of Breakfast.

Is breakfast ready ?
What have we for breakfast ?
Have you breakfasted ?
Will you breakfast with us ?
Will you be pleased to come to breakfast with me ?
I will accept your favor.
What do you choose ?
Whatever you please.
Will you have some chocolate ?
Do you like coffee better ?
I like chocolate very well.
Bring the chocolate-pot.
Set it upon the fire.
Where are the cups ?

Sir, I give you a great deal of trouble.

None at all, sir; if you were not here, I should have some chocolate.

You must now have a cup of coffee.

No, sir, I thank you.

It is very good, taste it, sir.

Certainly, there cannot be better drunk.

But it is too strong.

III.

Para Desayunarse.

¿ Esta pronto el almuerzo ?
¿ Que tenemos para almorzar ?
¿ Ha almorzado vd. ?
¿ Quiere vd. almorzar con nosotros ?
¿ Querra vd. venir a desayunarse conmigo ?
Acceptare el favor de vd.
¿ Que es lo que vd. gusta ?
Lo que vd. quiera.
¿ Quiere vd. chocolate ?
¿ Le gusta a vd. mas el cafe ?
Y chocolate me gusta bastante.
Traiga vd. la chocolatera.
Pongala vd. al fuego.
¿ Donde estan las tazas ?

Senor, yo le incomodo a vd. mucho.

Nada de eso, senor ; aunque vd. no estuviese aqui, yo tomaria chocolate.

Ahora debe vd. tomar una taza de cafe.

No, senor, muchas gracias.

Es excelente, pruebelo vd., senor.

Ciertamente, no se puede tomar mejor.

Pero es muy fuerte.

Take a cup of tea, if you like it better.	Tome vd. una taza de te, si le parece a vd. mejor.
Do you choose sugar and cream in it?	¿Quiere vd. azucar y nata?
For my part, I always drink it with sugar.	Yo siempre lo tomo sin azucar
Every one to his taste.	Cada uno tiene su gusto.
Do you like a boiled egg?	¿Quiere vd. un huevo pasado por agua?
Your tea grows cold.	El te de vd. se enfria.
Eat some bread and butter.	Coma vd. algunas tostadas de manteca.
No more, I return you many thanks, I have breakfasted.	No mas, doy a vd. mil gracias, ya he almorzado.
Now, I must take my leave of you, for I have a friend who is waiting for me.	Ahora voy a dejar a vd. porque tengo un amigo que me espera.
I am sorry you are in so much haste.	Siento mucho que este vd. tan de prisa.
I am always yours.	Soy siempre de vd.

IV.

Of the Weather.

How is the weather?
 It is bad weather?
 It is hot.
 It is very fine weather.
 It is cloudy weather.
 It is wet—windy—stormy—dry weather.
 It is foggy weather.
 The wind blows hard.
 The wind is turned; it falls.
 I think it will rain to-day.
 Does it rain? Does it not rain?
 It is going to rain.
 The rain poured down in torrents.
 See how it rains.

IV.

Del Tiempo.

¿Que tiempo hace?
 Hace mal tiempo.
 Hace calor.
 Hace muy buen tiempo.
 Esta nublado.
 Esta humedo—corre viento—esta borrascoso—esta seco.
 Hace niebla.
 Hace mucho aire.
 Se ha mudado el viento; calma
 Creo que llovera hoy.
 ¿Llueve? ¿No llueve?
 Va a llover.
 Llovía a cantaros.
 Vea vd. como llueve.

Let us shelter ourselves.
 It is cold, very cold.
 I am cold.
 I am starving with cold.
 It snows, it hails, it freezes.
 The river is frozen over.
 The snow melts away.
 The sun shines.
 The weather is now mild.
 It is hot; it is extremely hot.

Let us go into the shade.
 It lightens prodigiously.
 It thunders.
 It clears up.
 I see the rainbow.
 It is dirty.
 The stones are very slippery.
 It begins to grow light.
 It begins to grow dark.
 It is a starlight night.
 A coach has splashed me all over.
 The moon is eclipsed.
 The mist is so thick, that we can \ scarcely see one another.

Pongamonos a cubierto.
 Hace frio, mucho frio.
 Tengo frio.
 Estoy tiritando de frio.
 Nieva, graniza, hiela.
 El rio esta helado.
 La nieve se derrite.
 Hace sol.
 El tiempo esta ahora templado.
 Hace calor; hace un calor extraordinario.
 Vamos a la sombra.
 Relampaguea que es un pasmo.
 Truena.
 Ya aclara, ya escampa.
 Yo veo el arco iris.
 Hay lodo.
 Las piedras estan muy resbaladizas.
 Amanece.
 Anochece.
 El cielo esta estrellado.
 Un coche me ha alpicado de lodo.
 La luna esta eclipsada.
 La neblina es tan espesa, que apenas podemos vernos.

V.

At Dinner.

At what o'clock do you usually dine?
 At two o'clock, and I beg you will take dinner with me to-day.
 With all my heart.
 Let us sit down to table.
 There wants a cover here.
 Madam, do me the favor to take the first place.
 Who likes soup?

V.

Al tiempo de Comer.

¿A que hora suele vd. comer?
 A las dos, y suplico a vd. que se quede hoy a comer conmigo.
 Con mucho gusto.
 Sentemonos a la mesa.
 Aqui falta un cubierto.
 Senora, hagame vd. el favor de tomar el primer asiento.
 ¿Quien quiere sopa?

- Boy, take the soup and boiled meat away. Muchacho, quita la sopa y el ocido.
- Now, who understands carving? Ahora, ¿quien sabe trinchar?
- I sometimes undertake it, though I am very awkward at it. Algunas veces me entremeto a trinchar, aunque no soy de los mas habiles.
- Be so kind as to carve that duck, and help this lady to some of the breast. Tenga vd. la bondad de trinchar este pato, y de servir la pechuga a esta senora.
- You don't eat. Vd. no come.
- Come, gentlemen, let us take a glass together. Vamos, senores, bebamos juntos.
- Serve the lady with a glass of Champaign. Sirva vd. a la senora un vaso de Champana.
- Bring me some sherry. Traigame vd. Jerez.
- How do you like this wine? ¿Que le parece a vd. de este vino?
- It is very good. Es muy bueno.
- Gentlemen, your healths. A la salud de vd., senores.
- I thank you, sir. Mil gracias.
- I recommend the veal cutlets, as tender and juicy. Recomiendo a vd. las chuletas de ternera, porque estan tiernas y jugosas.
- There is also salmon, trout, tench, and whiting done with capersauce. Hay tambien salmon, trucha, tenca, y pescadilla compuesta con salsa de alcaparras.
- This fricassee of chicken seems to be very good. Este guisado de polles parece muy bueno.
- This hare is not done enough. Esta liebre no esta bien asada.
- Sir, will you do me the favor to help me to a bit of it? Senor, ¿quiere vd. tener la bondad de darme un pedacito?
- Take away, and bring the dessert. Quita estos platos, y trae los postres.
- Uncork that bottle. Destapa esa botella.
- I have lost my corkscrew. He perdido mi sacacorchos.
- Those are the fruits of the season, such as apples, pears, plums, cherries, black and red; figs, grapes, medlars, service-apples, mulberries, blackberries, pomegranates. Hay las frutas del tiempo, como manzanas, peras, ciruelas, guindas, y cerezas, higos, uvas, nisperos, acerolas, serbas, moras a granadas.

I have made a very good dinner. He comido bien.
 So have I. Y yo tambien.

GEOGRAPHY, HISTORY, AND PRESENT CONDITION OF CALIFORNIA.

THE old intendency of Old and New California in the days of the viceroys, corresponded exactly with the state of the Mexican Republic and that recently surrendered to the United States. It is on the Pacific Ocean, between the 32° and 42° north latitude, and reaches westward to the vast desert which separates it from New Mexico. It is bounded by Oregon on the North, on the east by the Rocky Mountains, on the south by Sonora and Old California, and on the west by the ocean. It has a coast of seven hundred miles, and reaches one hundred and twenty-five miles inward to the Sierra Nevada. The Pacific coast alone can be arable, though even the interior has many fertile valleys and wooded plains, and other lands susceptible of improvement.

When Cortes had conquered Mexico, the Spanish adventurers immediately penetrated to the extreme parts of the now Mexican Republic, except California, which long remained in the undisputed possession of the aboriginal occupants. This might have been expected; for the "blind passion for gold" did not extend as far as California, though all the nations nearer to Panama, led astray by a vicious civilization, exhibited a wealth not to be attained by the most patient industry anywhere.

Those who had passed from Cuba through the tierra templada of Mexico, were not led astray by the temptations of California; yet the latter was the true El Dorado of which Raleigh dreamed—the Ophir whence Solomon received his talents and shekels. The valley of Mexico, with its Arcadian climate, the stern obligations of duty, long retained the conquistadores from the true origin of all the Mexican wealth. There is no country in the world which exhibits so great a diversity of climate, soil, and fertility as California. Strangely, too, the best portion of the country is not on the sea-board, the whole of which, from Mendocino northwards, is occupied by a high, abrupt ridge. Between this range and one more abrupt, is the valley of the Sacramento, extending as far as Monte San Bernadino, the country between being called La Buena Ventura. Beyond these is a continuation of the Cascade Mountains of Oregon, capped with unmelting ice. Beyond these are nought but sandy plains, a root digger alone could inhabit. The harbor of San Francisco equals any in the world. It is land-locked, and formed on the bay created by the confluence of the two chief rivers of California—the San Francisco and San Joaquin. The valleys of these streams are the most fruitful in California, producing all the cereals, the vine, and tropical fruits. La Buena Ventura is the home of the California Indians, who live on the banks of the many streams flowing into these two rivers. These streams meet at a point sixty miles from the sea, with which they communicate by many streams which form a delta, to which that of the Mississippi is as nothing. Lower down, their immense volume of water forms a vast bay, on the south shore of which is San Francisco. It was once known as Yerba Buena, but the old appellation has resumed its influence. The Jesuits called it San Francisco. The following is an extract from a paper called the “California Star,” and gave an account of the place, which may be relied on as having been authentic when the American immigration first began to tend thither :

“ Yerba Buena, the name of our town, which means good herb, is situated on the southwest side of the principal arm of San Francisco Bay, about five miles from the ocean, on a narrow neck of land, varying from four to ten miles in width, the narrowest place being sixteen miles southwest of the town. It is in latitude $37^{\circ} 45'$ north. This narrow slip of land is about sixty miles in length, extending from the point formed by the bay and ocean of the valley of San José. The site of the town is handsome and commanding, being an inclined plane of about a mile in extent from the water's edge to the hills in rear. Two points of land—one on each side, extending into the bay—form a crescent, or a small bay in the shape of a crescent, in front, which bears the name of the town.

“ These points afford a fine view of the surrounding country—the snow-capped mountains in the distance—the green valleys beneath them—the beautiful, smooth, and unruffled bay in front and on either side, at once burst upon the eye. There is in front of the town a small island, rising high above the surface of the bay, about two miles long and one wide, which is covered the greater part of the year with the most exuberant herbage, of untrodden freshness. This little island is about three miles from the shore. Between it and the town is the principal anchorage. Here the vessels of all nations rest in safety and peace, and their flags are displayed by the aromatic breeze. Two hundred yards from the shore there is twenty-four feet water, and a short distance beyond that as many fathoms. The beach, immediately in front of the now business part of the town, is shelving, but it will, no doubt, in a short time, be filled up, and become the most valuable part of the place.

“The climate here is, in the winter, which is the rainy season, damp and chilly. During the balance of the year it is dry, but chilly, in consequence of the continual strong winds from the north and northwest. There is but little variation in the atmosphere throughout the year—the thermometer ranging from fifty-five to seventy degrees, Fahrenheit.

“Yerba Buena is one of the most healthy places on the whole coast of the Pacific. Sickness of any kind is rarely known among us. The salubrity of the climate—beauty of the site of the town—its contiguity to the mouth of the bay—the finest harbor on the whole coast, in front—the rich and beautiful country around it, all conspire to render it one of the best commercial points in the world.

“The town is new, having been laid off in 1839, by Captain John Vioget, and, notwithstanding all the troubles in the country, has gradually increased in size and importance. It now contains a population of about five hundred permanent citizens. Two years ago there were but about two hundred.

“Three miles south is the mission Dolores, on Mission Creek, surrounded by a small valley of rich and beautiful land. The water from this creek can easily be brought by means of aqueducts to any point to supply vessels. For the supply of the citizens, the best of well-water is obtained in every part of the town, by boring the distance of forty feet.

“In going south from Yerba Buena, the traveller passes over this narrow neck of land—a most delightful region, interspersed with hills, valleys, and mountains—the valleys rich and beautiful—the hills covered with tall pines, red-wood, and cedar, that have withstood the tempests and whirlwinds of a century—and the mountains rising in majestic grandeur to the clouds. In passing out, the valley of San José opens to the view in all the loveliness of the climate of Italy and beauty of the tropics. This valley is sixty miles in length and ten in width. The Puebla (which means an incorporated town) is the principal place of business for the valley, and is about five miles from Santa Clara, the landing on the bay, or, as it is termed here, 'the embarcadero.' Passing on from here northeast, the traveller, in a few hours' ride, reaches the straits which separate the Suisun Bay, formed by the confluence of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers, from that of San Pablo. Here it seems that the accumulated waters of a thousand years had suddenly rent the opposing mountain asunder, and flowed with tremendous force to the great bosom of the deep.

"On the north side of the bay, from the Straits to Sausilita, is one of the finest districts of the country in Upper California.

"Next to Yerba Buena, Sausilita is the best point on the whole bay for a commercial town. It is seven miles, a little east of north, from this place, on the opposite side of the bay, and has long been a watering point for vessels.

"An attempt has recently been made to lay off, and build up, a town at the Straits, to supersede the two last-mentioned places. It will, no doubt, however, be an entire failure.

“San Francisco Bay being the safest and most commodious harbor on the entire coast of the Pacific, some point on it must be the great mart of the Western World. We believe Yerba Buena to be the point, commanding, as it now does, all the trade of the surrounding country, and there being already a large amount of capital concentrated there.

“The town of Yerba Buena is called in some of the old maps of the country, SAN FRANCISCO.”

Just one degree from San Francisco towards the equator is the Bay of Monterey, into which the Buena Ventura debouches. On the south side of this is the town of Monterey. At an early date after the occupation it became a prosperous town. It was once a formidable position ; but at the time of the American occupation, its defences were feeble and crumbling. About one hundred and twenty miles south is the town of Los Angeles, near which occurred the battles between General Kearney and the Californians at San Pascual and San Miguel. The whole country of California is strewn with missions established by the Jesuits, who, previous to 1823, ruled the country. Now, though decayed and ruinous, they are most interesting, and are yet the important points of the country.

On the Sacramento, previous to annexation, there was a sparse population ; and except a few American emigrants, a Russian establishment at Ross, and Captain Suter's vast plantations, were a perfect desert. West of the vast sandy plain we have spoken of, runs the Rio Colorado, or Red River of the West, a tributary of which is the Gila, along which General Kearney, with his forlorn hope, marched, and which is the boundary between the Mexican Republic and the empire she ceded.

Such is the physical geography of CALIFORNIA NUEVA, or New or Northern California. The southern portion of the country is extremely hot and dry, except during a portion of the winter. As we move from the sea though, we find the rainy season prolonged, so that at San Francisco it lasts from November to April, the rest of the year the earth being irrigated by the most copious dews. Occasionally there are found snow and ice on the shores of the Bay of San Francisco ; we mean on the summit of the mountains ; yet, though, it rarely passes that line. The rains are never violent, and sometimes years have passed without them ; yet the country has continued fertile and productive, bringing forth rare and beautiful plants, on which the herds, once the sole wealth of California, have thriven. The country around San Francisco and Mount Bernadino alone seem capable of sustaining a large agricultural population. This is, though, of little importance, as its position alone will make it mistress of the Pacific.

About the year 1842, a most accurate and curious Frenchman, M. de Mofras, travelled on the Pacific, and published, in relation to California, etc., a book the French government thought worthy of its patronage. He described California as it was, and thus particularized its population. Its area, he thought, was 500,000, and its population he estimated (there had never been a census) as follows:

Californians of Spanish origin,	.	.	.	4000
Americans,	.	.	.	360
British,	.	.	.	300
European Spaniards,	.	.	.	80
French and Canadians,	.	.	.	80
Other Europeans and Sandwich Islanders,	.	.	.	90
Mexicans,	.	.	.	90
Total,	.	.	.	5000

Thence to the time of annexation the population vastly increased, so that when the flags were changed there were not less than twenty thousand in California. Now the population is far nearer a million than five hundred thousand.

The population was in small villages, the largest town being San Diego, which had thirteen hundred inhabitants. Santa Barbara had eight hundred, Monterey one thousand, San Francisco eight hundred, and the rest of the missions divided the other hundreds and thousands. All other inhabitants (Indians) were estimated at thirty-three thousand ; and this included the people of the peninsula of Vieja or South California. The Indians were spoken of as civilized. This phrase though, merely means that on their own savage superstitions they had engrafted the most degrading of those of the Roman Catholic Church ; they were two centuries behind many Indian tribes on our frontier we yet consider savages. They were tall, well made, and muscular, but far darker than any other tribes of the continent. They were once said to be industrious, and under the Jesuit rule acquired not a small skill in the mechanic arts, having constructed for the missionaries the vast houses which yet amaze the traveller. They have, however, much degenerated, and are now the idlest of the idle, and seem almost incapable of physical or mental exertion, unless the object be thievery, murder, or robbery. Capt. Suter, however, did much with them; and there is little doubt but that tact, kindness, and prudence, would yet turn their thews to use. The person to whom we have just referred, is a remarkable man. Capt. Suter is a Swiss, and was an officer of the gardes du corps of Charles X. After the destruction of the restoration, he emigrated to America, and having lived some time in Missouri, (he remained there until 1838 or 1839,) the Mexican government granted him a tract of land in California, on which he immediately located himself. At first he had some difficulty with the Indians, but finally succeeded in reducing them under control. Colonel Fremont reported his defences as being well built, and in good condition, and as having all been constructed by Indian labor. He purchased the stock of a fort the Russians were about to abandon, at a low rate, and paid for them in grain. His fort mounted twelve guns, would contain one thousand men, but had a permanent garrison of forty uniformed Indians. It is quadrangular, of unburned brick or adobe. He had Americans, French, and Germans in his service, and around him settled many Americans, so that the stream on which he lives came to be called El Rio de los Americanos— the River of the Americans. It is strange how completely all other nations of this continent have yielded this title to our countrymen. His wealth, previous to the discovery of gold, consisted of his herds, and flocks, and fields of grain measured by miles. By an accident, however (the digging of a mill-race), he became connected with the most valuable mineral deposit in the world.

We need not speak of the gold deposits of Upper California, for newspapers and private letters home made all familiar with them, but will turn to the southern peninsula—Vieja, or Lower California. This is a narrow neck of land, between the waters known as the Gulf of California, or Vermillion Sea, and the Pacific, and reaches north and south from the mouth of the Colorado to Cape Saint Lucas, from the 22° to the 28° N. L. It is divided into two nearly equal portions, by the remnants of some old volcanic action, made evident at this day by bituminous springs and vast masses of scoriæ and lava. Of this range, the mountains of California are only continuations, gradually decreasing until they reach 42° , and then again swelling until they reach the great Oregon range. Vieja, or Lower California, has probably, at the first glance, less to tempt emigrants than any country in the world. It has, however, a peculiar source of industry—the pearl fishery. God, who has made this land one of the most sterile in the world, has made the sea most productive. Every variety of fish are found on its shores, among which are the halibut, salmon, turbot, skate, pilchard, oyster, crab, sardine, tunny, mackerel, barbel, bonito, anchovy, and countless others, which, as yet, have no name in commerce. The oyster is pearl-bearing, and this alone would make California a precious acquisition to any nation. This oyster is of the testaceous family, genus, Mya, and species, Margaritifera. The pearl is said to be the consequence of a disease; but be that as it may, it once enriched Ormus, and will enrich California. The following is the process of obtaining the pearl; and there is no doubt but that any one who had energy to employ the diving apparatus of Captain Taylor, would realize an immense fortune.

“These pearls of Lower California, are considered of excellent water, but their rather irregular figure somewhat reduces their value. The manner of obtaining these pearls is not without interest. The vessels employed in the fisheries are from fifteen to thirty tons burden. They are usually fitted out by private individuals. The armador, or owner, commands them. Crews are shipped to work them, and from forty to fifty Indians, called Busos, to dive for the oyster. A stock of provisions and spirits—a small sum of money to advance the people during the cruise—a limited supply of calaboose furniture—a sufficient number of hammocks to sleep in, and a quantity of ballast, constitute nearly all the cargo outward bound. Thus arranged, they sail into the Gulf; and, having arrived at the oyster-banks, cast anchor and commence business. The divers are first called to duty. They plunge to the bottom in four or five fathoms water, dig up with sharpened sticks as many oysters as they are able, rise to the surface, and deposit them in sacks hung to receive them at the vessel's side; and thus they continue to do until the sacks are filled, or the hours allotted to this part of the labor ended. When the diving of the day is done, all come on board, and place themselves in a circle around the armador, who divides what they have obtained in the following manner: two oysters for himself, the same number for the busos, or divers, and one for the government.

“This division having been concluded, they next proceed, without moving from their places, to open the oysters which have fallen to the lot of the armador. During this operation, the dignitary has to watch the busos with the greatest scrutiny, to prevent them from swallowing the pearls with the oysters—a trick which they perform with so much dexterity as almost to defy detection, and by means of which they often manage to secrete the most valuable pearls. The government portion is next opened with the same precautions, and taken into possession by the armador. And, last of all, the busos open theirs, and sell them to the armador in liquidation of debts incurred for their outfits, or of moneys advanced during the voyage. They usually reserve a few to sell to dealers on shore, who always accompany these expeditions with spirituous liquors, chocolate, sugar, cigars, and other articles of which these Indian divers are especially fond. Since the Mexicans obtained their independence, another mode of division has been adopted. Every time the busos comes up, the largest oyster which he has obtained is taken by the armador and laid aside for the use of the Virgin Mary ; the rest are thrown in a pile ; and when the day's diving is ended, eight oysters are laid out for the armadors, eight for the busos, and two for the government.

“ In the year 1831, one vessel, with seventy busos, another with fifty, and two with thirty each, and two boats with ten each, from the coast of Sonora, engaged in this fishery. The one brought in forty ounces of pearls, valued at $6,500 ; another twenty ounces, valued at $3,000, and two others of proportionate quality."

But southwest of California is Sonora, of which we know nothing except its boundaries. It lies west of the Great Desert, north of Sinaloa, south of New Mexico, and west of Chihuahua ; it has a sparse population, and from time to time is ravaged by the Apaches and other wild tribes. Unless the United States take charge of it, in a few years it will become the home of savages, and a curse to our possessions on the Pacific. It has few towns, and no government beyond the chain of sentinels of the forlorn brigadier, sent to keep the Indians in check. New Mexico is now the property of the United States, and before the year rolls around will be well governed.

Such was California, and such were its adjacent territories before the annexation. Let us, before we pay attention to the statu quo, look at its history.

The discoverer of California was a Spaniard, and strangely enough it was first visited by land from the east. Alvaro Nuñez, nicknamed Cabeza de Vaca, was one of three hundred Spaniards who escaped from the massacre of Narvaez' party, wandered across the American continent until he reached the coast of Cubiaccan Sonora on the Vermillion Sea. While there, he heard of rich mines, mountains of gold, beds of pearl; and on his return told such stories that all Mexico was excited by them. Just then, Marcos de Niza, who had been sent (he was a priest) to convert the Indians, and who had reached California, came home. He told strange stories of a civilized race; and it is probable that he told the truth, for Major Emory has described curious architectural ruins in the country he visited. He saw Cibola, the city of the desert, now no more, but evidently the home of a civilized people.

Niza's tales induced the fitting out of an expedition, under the command of Coronado, who went as far as Utah, or the Salt Lake, but who returned without making any discovery. A new era was, however, to dawn on California. Between the years 1697 and 1791, the Jesuits, Ugarte, Salvatierra, and Kuhn, visited the Californian, or Vermillion Sea. Then only was it known that California was not an island, and the monks were California's true conquerors. We need not say how they conquered it; but they ruled it until 1767, when the Order of Jesus, having been suppressed in all the Spanish dominions, the Dominicans became their heirs. Thenceforth the property the Jesuits had begun to create, commenced to decay.

The Dominicans finally lost the control of California as the Jesuits had done; and in 1825, after several military commandants and governors, Don Jone Echandia was in possession of the supreme authority in California. Thus things remained until 1829, when the garrison of Monterey revolted. Echandia, however, suppressed the mutiny, and retained power until 1831, when he was superseded by Don Manuel Victoria. The tyranny of this officer produced a revolt, which is important only from the fact, that then, for the first time, foreigners appeared in California.

Various governors and governments succeeded, which are no more important than the battles of the hawks and crows, and thus things continued until the war between the United States and Mexico became imminent.

We have already spoken of Captain Suter.

The only other point in the history of Monterey to which we need refer, is the seizure of Monterey by Thomas Ap Catesby Jones, a commodore of the navy, in 1842. While on the coast of Peru, that gallant officer, a naval veteran of the war of 1812, heard that the British government had negotiated a treaty with Santa Anna, for the surrender of California, on the strength of which information he immediately seized Monterey. The intelligence on which he acted proved false, and the city was again returned to the Mexican authorities.

But war began between the United States of the North and Mexico, May 13th, 1846 ; and Commodore Sloat, who commanded in the Pacific, commenced operations. It is useless here to recite the history of the contest, which resulted in the cession to the United States of all the territory hitherto possessed by Mexico north of the Rio Grande and the Rio Gila. Out of that the territory of California and the state, has been formed.

The following is the history of the State of California :

After being under the command of various military governors, the people of California met in convention, and formed a Constitution. This Constitution was remitted to the United States Congress, and California was admitted into the American Union.

The following were the limits of the new State

It reaches northward from the Gila to the old Oregon line, which was 42° north. It is bounded on the west by the Pacific, and on the east by the Great Desert. An inspection of the map alone will show that this is a region of country with capabilities greater than are contained by half a dozen European monarchies. It unites the qualities of every climate in the world, and is able to produce, within a few leagues, the productions of every part of the world. The orange is found on the shore, and the fruits of the colder climates on the declivities of the hills. No mineral seems to have been forgotten in the composition of this seat of empire. The great mineral which is the germ of all wealth (coal), abounds on the north of the Bay of San Francisco. Cinnabar is found so pure that heat alone suffices to extract the liquid quicksilver. Vast deposits of lead and copper are scarcely noticed; and beds of silver, richer far than those of Zacatecas or Potosi, are scarcely attended to. Every mineral has been found there, Platinum, the rarer iridium, and every variety of gems. Emeralds of the most transparent hue, topazes and amethysts, all have been found; and richer pearls than Ormus ever produced, have been brought from the depth of the sea.

What may we not expect from this country?

The Constitution which previously had been formed by a convention, was ratified by a popular vote, Nov. 13, 1849. The following were its provisions:

Each white male citizen of the United States, twenty-one years of age, and every Mexican, who, in pursuance of the treaty of Queretaro, shall choose to Americanise himself, who shall have been in California six months, and in the district where he proposes to vote thirty days, shall be entitled to the right of suffrage. Indians, and their descendants, under certain qualifications, may be admitted by the legislature to the right of suffrage.

The senate, in numbers, shall not be less than a third, nor more than a half of the numbers of the assembly. They are to be elected for two years by districts composed of one or more counties. Subsequent to the first election, they are to be so classified that one half are to be elected annually. The number of these is never to be less than twenty-four, nor more than thirty-six, until the population shall have exceeded one hundred thousand. Under no circumstances can the number exceed eighty. All senators and members of the legislature are to be qualified electors, and must have lived six months in the districts they represent, previous to their election. The legislature is to meet on the first Monday after January of each year, and the members are to be chosen on the Tuesday after the first of November preceding. The usual privileges which all legislative bodies possess, are conferred on the members of both houses. Provisions were made for taking the census in 1852 and 1855, and every ten years afterwards.

The governor is to be elected for two years, and is to serve until his successor is qualified. He must be twenty-five, and a citizen of the United States. He has a conditional veto, subject to the action of a vote of two-thirds of the assembly. The lieutenant-governor is to have similar qualifications. He is to be president of the senate, and in case of death or impeachment, shall be chief magistrate of the commonwealth. If the lieutenant-governor die, the president of the senate will exercise all the powers of the chief magistrate. The governor will appoint a secretary of the senate ; and administrative officers, comptroller, treasurer, attorney, and surveyor, were selected by a joint vote of both houses in the first instance, but henceforth are to be voted for at the same time, and in the same manner, as the governor and lieutenant-governor.

The supreme court has appellate jurisdiction in all cases where the dispute is more than $200, and where the legality of official acts is contested. It consists of a chief and two assistant justices, elected for six years, and one of these is to go out of office every two years. After the first election, the oldest in commission shall be chief justice. The district courts are to have concurrent jurisdiction in law and equity, when the res in lite exceeds $200. In the first instance, they are to be chosen by the legislature ; afterwards by the people. Attorneys, sheriffs, etc., are to be elected in pursuance of laws to be enacted by the legislature. A judge is to be elected in pursuance of laws to be passed by the legislature for every four years, adjunct with whom are two justices of the peace. These officers are also judges of probate. Sheriffs, coroners, etc., are to be similarly appointed.

Provision is made for a superintendent of public instruction, and to this purpose (public instruction) are to be appropriated all lands now, or in futuro, granted ; all estates of persons who die without heirs, etc.

Duellists are disfranchised, and the State's credit may not be loaned.

The wife's property is not liable for the husband's debts.

The homestead may be protected from seizure by law, etc.

The boundaries are to be from the intersection of 42° N. L., and 120° L. W. from Greenwich southward on the line of 120° , until it reach 39° N. L.; thence southeast to the Colorado, where it meets 35° N. L.; down the middle of the channel of the said river, to the line established by the treaty of May 30, 1848; thence west, along said line, to the Pacific, and three miles beyond; thence up the Pacific coast, to 42° N. L., where the boundary began.

This includes all adjacent islands, etc.

The following was the government in 1851 :

P. H. Burnett, Governor, term expires December, 31, 1851.

C. P. Ryland, Governor's Secretary, term expires Dec. 31, 1851.

J. McDougal, Lieut.-Governor, do., do.

MILITIA.

The State of California is divided into four divisions. The Major-Generals are : T. G. Green, J. E. Brackett, D. F. Douglass, J. E. Addison, and John H. Bean.

The Brigadiers are : T. B. Eastman, A. M. Winn, R. Semple, — McDonald, D. P. Baldwin, T. H. Bowen, J. M. Covarrubias, P. Per Lee, and J. C. Moorehead, Q. M. G.

The relative rank of the above, it is here impossible to ascertain.

We cannot either speak of mail routes or post offices, for they are for ever being changed, and have now only to give the names of the several counties of California.

Those printed in SMALL CAPITALS are either on the sea or the great bays. The others have no sea-board.

TRINITY,	MENDOCINO,
SONORA,	NAPA,
MARIN,	SOLANO,
CONTRA COSTA,	BRANCIFORTE,
SANTA CLARA,	MONTEREY,
SAN LUIS OBISPO,	SANTA BARBARA,
Shasta,	Colusi,
Butte,	Yuba,
Suter,	El Dorado,
Sacramento,	San Joaquin,
Calaveras,	Tuolumne.

These counties are merely temporary, a provision having been made for their subdivision as exigencies may require.

The above we believe a fair exhibit of the present state of California, and, as such, respectfully submit it to the public.

THE END.
